H.E. Mr. António Guterres Secretary-General of the United Nations Executive Office of the Secretary-General United Nations Secretariat Building 405 E. 42nd St., New York, NY 10017

Dear Mr. Secretary-General:

We write to you as allied civil society organizations and individuals concerned about financing for gender equality. We have been actively engaging with the United Nations around this issue and met with your Senior Gender Advisor, Nahla Valji, as well as key representatives from UN Women, including Zohra Khan and Aparna Mehrotra, during the UN General Assembly this September.

We are delighted to learn that the High-Level Task Force on Financing for Gender Equality and Women's Empowerment will be publicly announced in December 2017 and that it will tackle gender equality within the UN system and through the implementation of the UN-SWAP. However, we are concerned that the mandate of this Task Force is too narrow and will not focus on pressing issues about financing for gender equality in support of the 2030 Agenda.

The Task Force can play a pivotal role in achieving the SDGs by drawing on experts from within and outside the UN system to explore financing more broadly. This is of particular concern, since funding commitments to development and gender equality are being reduced and expenditures on official development assistance diverted. Moreover, policy emphasizing reduced fiscal space and applying austerity measures continue to threaten development programming and gender equality investments worldwide. It makes little sense for development and aid programming to focus on expanding women's rights and opportunities when macroeconomic and fiscal policy is working against these achievements, closing down investments in gender equality, restricting job growth and undermining institutions and laws that uphold rights.

The Task Force should also focus on domestic resource mobilization and budgeting, since they play an increasingly critical role in development expenditures and support is desperately needed by those inside government and in civil society to tap into those resources.

We believe that civil society, particularly women's and girls' organizations, must play a key role in this Task Force, through adequate input and representation. This is particularly important in a context where other allies and actors, including the private sector, are increasingly being drawn into UN processes and commitments.

We celebrate Your Excellency's demonstrated commitments to gender equality, and hope that you will consider expanding the mandate of the Task Force and mechanisms for civil society consultation. For further information, please contact Spogmay Ahmed at sahmed@icrw.org.

Sincerely,
